

The Cross Mark Again.

Once more we are forced to make the little, ugly cross-mark (X) on the margin of the Herald, and we trust it will be noticed and promptly acted on. It is a consolation, however, that but few marks have to be made; and the few who see the mark it is confidently hoped will square up without delay. Those who subscribed for three months, will please remember that their time is about expiring, and, with some, out; others there are, who begged for indulgence, promising to pay at an early day, which they have forgotten to do, and need only this reminder to refresh their memories. To all such the little cross will come, and with the happy effect we hope, of inducing them to pay up.

What is the matter with the Phoenix? Since pluming its wings for a bolder flight, it has ceased flying hereabouts.

We give much space to the elaborate message of Gov. Perry, in this issue, to the exclusion of other matter.

The Winsboro News announces the death of Hon. R. B. Boylston, which occurred in that town on Monday evening last. Mr. B. was a prominent citizen of Fairfield District, a member of the Legislature for several years and Speaker of the House of Representatives.

From Mexico.

The French have occupied Chihuahua. Juarez and cabinet fled to El Paso. The indications are that he will soon be driven from his last foothold on Mexican soil and become a fugitive within the United States.

South Carolina Methodist Conference.

The Conference for 1865 will be held at Charleston, N. C., on the first November. Bishop Pierce will preside.

The next General Conference will meet in New Orleans on the first Wednesday in April, 1866.

Fenianism.

Alarm is being felt in England concerning the Fenian Brotherhood in Ireland. The work of organization goes rapidly on. Fenians increase on every side. Men move mysteriously about. Companies drill in the mountains, and every conceivable phase of activity.

G. &amp; C. B. E.

Mr. James B. Browne, the energetic acting Superintendent of the Greenville & Columbia Railroad, authorizes us to state that on and after Thursday, the 21st instant, trains will run daily over said road. Leaving Newberry at 5 3/4 a. m.

Emigration.

It is said that a great tide of emigration will set in from the Northern States this winter, especially to North Carolina, under the auspices of the General Southern Land Agency, established in New York. Lands are offered in North Carolina at cheap rates. It is estimated that at least one hundred thousand emigrants will go from the Northern States this year.

The Mail.

The Postmaster General has ordered services on the following important railroads: From Kingsville to Wilmington; from Kingsville to Augusta; from Florence to Cheraw; from Charleston to Florence; from Columbia to Charleston; from Chester to Yorkville; from Alston to Spartanburg; from Newberry to Laurens; and from Charleston to Savannah.

Meeting of the Convention.

The delegates in full force assembled on Wednesday, 18th at the Baptist Church, Columbia. The members being enrolled, various persons were nominated for President. Hon. Judge Wardlaw was elected, receiving 55 votes. The President elect being conducted to the chair, addressed the convention.

Since the first day's proceedings, nothing further has been heard from the Convention, the Phoenix having failed to come to hand.

General Amnesty.

It is the opinion of many well-informed circles North, that something approaching a general amnesty will be proclaimed to the people of the South long before the next Congress. It is expected to be made applicable to the people of particular States at different times. Mississippi has been foremost among the Southern States in passing an objectionable Constitution. She may also be the first to reap the reward of this extended clemency. It is the fixed policy and intention of the President to suitably reward every sincere manifestation of loyalty on the part of the Southern States. He is gratified by declarations of loyalty, but he is convinced by the inexorable logic of acts like those of Mississippi. We hold in our hands the key to our future fate. Let us look to the character of the Legislature and the next Congress.

President Johnson and the Southern Delegation. A large number of Southern gentlemen recently in Washington on business connected with the restoration, formed a delegation representing nine Southern States, called upon the President on the 11th instant, before their departure, as an act of courtesy to express their unqualified confidence in the justice and magnanimity of the government in the matter of reconstruction. The reception was most cordial. The President addressed the delegation at length, and alluded to the opposite course he and they had taken at the commencement of the war, but was glad to see that the Southern people after having submitted their contest with the government to the arbitrament of the sword and lost, now frankly admitted their defeat, and were manifesting a disposition to again become good citizens of the United States. He assured them that every possible facility which he and the other government officers could give in the work of restoring to them civil government, would be promptly and cheerfully rendered, and he hoped to see them soon again fully enjoying their old position in the United States. He said there was no disposition on the part of the government to deal harshly with the South, and that although he dreaded disintegration, he was strongly opposed to consolidation of power in Washington.

A "Mr. S." of Burlington, eloped last week with the wives of three of the most respected citizens of Nashua, New Hampshire, they crossed to Canada on a lumber barge, under cover of night, and the old Turk was last heard of at Saint Leon, Canada East, closely pursued by one of the injured husbands.

A pretty accurate estimate of the defalcations of Edward B. Ketchum has now been arrived at, and it foots up the enormous amount of four millions two hundred thousand dollars.

Within the past forty days four hundred negroes have died in Montgomery, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Found—Near the Hotel, a ladies' veil, which the owner can have on application at this office.

LATE PAPERS.—We are indebted to Col. Henry Buist, Dr. Griffin, and Mr. Joseph Ward for late Northern papers.

RENOVATE YOUR FURNITURE.—Mr. Martin Harris requests us to state that he is now prepared to mend, patch, varnish, and renovate all articles in the Cabinet Maker's Line. We can rough for his abilities as a workman. They are superior.

TO ADVERTISERS.—Our advertising patrons are requested to hand in their favors not later than Monday morning's, when convenient to do so. As our paper goes to press on Tuesday morning we find it difficult sometimes to find room for advertisements handed in at the last hour.

ONE OF THE SMALL SWEET COURTESIES.—A kind lady friend agreeably surprised us several days ago by sending to the office a delicious wheat loaf. It was of virgin whiteness—and so light and sweet. We wish her long life and a never ending supply of the staff of life.

LEGISLATURE.—Gov. Perry, in his message before the Convention, recommends that an election for members to the Legislature take place on the second Monday in Oct. As this recommendation will no doubt be carried out, it would be well perhaps for suitable nominations to be made in time.

LATE FROM BELOW.—A despatch, by underground gives us the information that Mr. Laurence Marshall, of the firm of Marshall & Bro., is heading direct for Charleston, and that he will soon return with such a stock as will astonish the natives of Newberry. The ladies are admonished to be of good cheer.

A CHANCE FOR MECHANICS.—By reference to advertisement it will be seen that the Ladies Card Factory is to be sold at auction. House, lot, engine, machinery, &c., will be sold on a credit till first January next. The proceeds to be charitably expended in educating orphans of deceased soldiers.

LOOK AT THEM.—The advertisements of Mr. Henry Blease, which are full of interest. We are pleased to see our old friend once more in active business. He is so well known to the community as a business man of enterprise, activity, and strict probity, that we need only say go to him if you want anything in his line.

Our worthy Postmaster, Mr. S. P. Kinard, has for the last five or six months devoted his time and attention to the discharge of post office duties without pay from any source. We think it would be agreeable to him for his friends and the public generally to contribute a mite in money or provisions to his support. It is right that we substantially remember those who labor for us. Unrequited toil weighs heavily. Let us be generous.

The 58th.—This regiment relieved from the command of this department, will leave here on Wednesday morning. The 25th Ohio, we understand, will take the place of the 58th.

Col. Tyler and the officers composing his staff request us to extend their courtesies and kind feelings to the citizens of Newberry, generally, for the very cordial treatment received at their hands while sojourning here in the capacity of public servants of the Government. As the command leaves to-morrow for Chester, they take this method of bidding adieu, and reciprocating the kind offices of the citizens, wishing them continued peace and increasing prosperity and happiness for all time to come.

A NEW WINKLE.—The boys are growing to be a fast institution, now-a-days, particularly in this town. Turned loose through the day by their "parents," they scatter broadcast and are everywhere just where they are least wanted, listening to conversations and picking up ideas calculated to do them harm. This has been the case for some time, but the new feature now is to ask for money to buy something with. As Old crows crow, so young ones learn. The practice is quite common of late among the old rascals, to ease a man of his pocket book whether or no, and if boys are allowed to take the first step in asking it is hard to tell where the thing may end. Keep them at home, they are not wanted in stores, about government offices, the printing office, nor about the streets where men congregate.—Keep them at home.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—To be found in our columns this week: Henry Blease—Tin manufactory, J. R. Tarrant—Ladies' Card Factory, W. M. Beckham—Hack Line, J. M. Ward—For Sale, N. F. Butler—Wool for sale, A. M. Riser—Wines, Bitters, Salt and Rice, H. H. Kinard—Auction, W. W. Houseal—Note Lost, C. A. Lengnick—Ministry Goods, J. N. Robson—Comm. Merchant, Conference Notice, G. W. Clark & Co.—Groceries, Liquors, &c, John King—Groceries, Liquors, &c, Mrs. E. Lengnick—Private Sale, Gibbs & Co.—For Liverpool, Webb & Lovelace—Late arrival of goods, B. H. Lovelace—Carriage and horses for sale.

A notorious negro named Horace Aleck, who was confined in jail for a burglary at Hempstead, New York, escaped and returned to the house. Finding that the lady was alone—her husband being at work in the field, threw her to the ground, filled her mouth with sand and committed an outrage upon her. After which he deliberately entered the house and robbed it of everything valuable. As soon as the lady recovered she gave the alarm, and the citizens infuriated at the intelligence of the outrage, armed themselves and scoured the country for ten miles around, but without success so far. It is believed, however, that he cannot escape, as the police have a full description of him, and that he will soon be captured and brought to condign punishment.

From Egypt the Gazette du Midi gives details of the ravages caused by the cholera. In one village in the Delta, celebrated for the cultivation of water-mellons, the whole of the inhabitants died. Being unable to sell their fruit, they ate it themselves, and died to the last man. It was necessary to employ forced labor to bury the last, and it is said that 32,000 victims of the contagion and bad living were buried in Egypt within six weeks.

Northern papers contain accounts of the pranks and depredations of mad bulls, cows and oxen. Three took the streets (Broadway) wandering over New York recently, killing and maiming several of the citizens. A lady escaped with the loss of her corset.

A young woman jumped from a railway train while at full speed in Pennsylvania, and her hoop skirt saved her life.

The Cholera.

An article in the London Times, Aug. 29, gives strong ground for hope, that this fearful disease, the approach of which is spreading such alarm through Europe and this country, is not of the same character as the visitations of '32, '49, and '54, and that its ravages are confined to the seaboard. Hitherto this disease has always advanced in a certain track, from India towards the region of Western Europe. Its progress could be marked stage by stage, not always in a direct line, but generally from the southeast to the northwest. It was heard of in Persia, Asia Minor and Turkey; then Vienna, Prague, Warsaw, Berlin, and North Germany, till it got to Belgium and Paris. We quote from the article:

"At the present time not one of these characteristics is discernible. We heard nothing whatever of the cholera as it is on its route from India. It was first reported, quite abruptly, from Alexandria, where it raged terribly, spreading along the coast to Damietta, and running up the Nile to Cairo. Then we heard of it at Smyrna, in the Isle of Cyprus, at Constantinople, and in the villages on the Bosphorus. Presently it is reported from Ancona, from Gibraltar and Malta, from Marsello, from Barcelona, and from Valencia. But in no one of these instances has it advanced from the sea coast into the interior for the case of Cairo can hardly be considered an exception. It has not spread beyond Ancona, though the disease in that town was very intense. Once there was a story of its appearance in Milan, but that was not confirmed. It has not advanced beyond Marsello, or beyond any of the infected ports on the east coast of Spain. Southern Italy has been attacked, but only under similar conditions. Cholera is last reported from San Vito and San Severo—the former a town close upon the coast, the latter a little beyond. These are the results of a survey of the case up to the present moment. The only exception is a report of the cholera in Hungary, but, this in professional statements is reduced to 'choleric,' and is apparently only such a disorder as occurs most autumns in London. In short, upon a summary of the evidence, we come to this, not that an Asiatic pestilence is advancing upon us across Europe, but that there has been an extraordinary outbreak of the cholera in the basin of the Mediterranean."

"This marked and special limitation of the epidemic may not unreasonably suggest to us some hopes of immunity. Within the basin of the Mediterranean no shore has escaped; beyond no cholera has appeared. The latest intelligence reports a panic from Wallachia and Moldavia, but the disease had not yet declared itself in those provinces, though it is obviously probable that it might creep into the Black Sea and make the circuit of those coasts also."

DISTRESS ON ROANOKE ISLAND.—The steamer Washington Irving has arrived at Norfolk, from Roanoke Island. The captain reports that on the eye of their departure from Roanoke Island his engineer went ashore for the mails, and when returning to the boat was attacked by two negroes, pushed and kicked from the sidewalk; whereupon he defended himself by knocking one of the negroes down, for which he was arrested and kept in the lock-up over night. On the morning of the 24th he was brought before Col. Holmes, First United States colored regiment, tried and acquitted. The officers of the Washington Irving say the darkies do as they please on the island, and that it is not safe for a white man to land there.

THE RETORT COINTEGRATES.—A clergyman and one of his elderly parishioners were walking home from church one frosty day lately, when the old gentleman slipped and fell flat on his back. The minister, looking at him a moment and being assured that he was not much hurt, said to him, "Friend, sinners stand on slippery places." The old gentleman rose up, and said, "I see they do, but I can't."

"Sir," said an old physician to a shallow youth, who has been assailing him with a string of foolish impertinencies, "I can not be angry with you; for I see you have an incurable disease." "An incurable disease? Good Heavens, Doctor, what is it?" "You are a fool!"
